WHAT IS DECENTRALIZED CRYPTOCURRENCY?

Decentralized cryptocurrency is a digital currency that operates on a decentralized network using blockchain technology. Unlike traditional currencies, it is not controlled by any central authority, such as a government or financial institution. Instead, transactions are verified and recorded on a distributed ledger maintained by a network of nodes, ensuring transparency, security, and resistance to censorship or manipulation. Examples include Bitcoin and Ethereum.

Decentralized cryptocurrency is a form of digital currency that operates on blockchain technology, enabling secure and transparent peer-to-peer transactions without relying on a central authority like a bank or government. Unlike traditional fiat currencies, decentralized cryptocurrencies are maintained by a distributed network of computers (nodes) that work together to validate and record transactions on a shared public ledger.
